

Dear Britain,

Why did you send us over to the New World? The colonist's are not happy with us. They are demanding independence. When we walk down the road people laugh at us. They hate us. They do not like when we sleep in their houses and eat their food and wear their clothes. Even the children make silly faces at us. They throw rocks and snowballs at us. When can we come home? Most of us are ready to leave and we miss our family. When are you going to respond? Please make it soon?

Respectfully,

British Infantry
