FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What are the requirements to get a Substitute Teaching License?

- You qualify for a Substitute Teaching License if you hold a bachelor's degree or higher from a regionally accredited college/university.
- Your degree can be in any field. It does not have to be in education.

How do I know if my college or university is regionally accredited?

- Check the website of the institution to verify the accreditation.

What are the acceptable regional accrediting bodies?

- The Illinois State Board of Education (ISBE) accepts accreditation from these regional accrediting bodies:
 - The Higher Learning Commission of the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools.
 - Middle States Association of Colleges and Schools.
 - New England Association of Colleges and Schools.
 - Northwest Association of Colleges and Schools.
 - Southern Association of Colleges and Schools.
 - Western Association of Colleges and Schools.

What if my degree is from a technical or trade school/college?

- Check the website of the institution to verify the accreditation.
- Most technical or trade institutions have national or career/vocational accreditation only.
- If the institution does not have regional accreditation, you do not qualify for a Substitute Teaching License.

What if my degree is from outside of the United States (U.S.)?

- You will need to get your transcripts/diploma evaluated by a professional evaluation company. This company can determine the equivalent semester hours and degree(s) in the U.S. educational system.
- If you have the equivalent of a U.S. bachelor's degree or higher from an equivalent of a regionally accredited institution in the U.S. then ISBE should issue a Substitute Teaching License.
- See this list of the foreign evaluation companies that have been approved by ISBE: <https://www.isbe.net/Documents/foreign-cred-eval-svcs.pdf>.

Can I substitute teach if my Professional Educator License (PEL) is lapsed?
