

VOLLEYBALL

Volleyball is a team sport played by two teams on a playing court divided by a net. The object of the game is for each team to send the ball regularly over the net to ground it (have it hit the ground or floor) on the opponent's court, and to prevent the ball from being grounded on its own court.

OVERVIEW

Volleyball is a game composed of two teams. Each team has six players on the court at a time. The player's positions are referred to a right back, center back, left back, left front, center front, and right front. A game is played to 25 points with the winning team ahead by at least two points. High school volleyball victories are determined by matches- winning 2 out of 3 games.

History of Volleyball

In 1995, the sport of Volleyball was 100 years old! The sport originated in the United States, and is now just achieving the type of popularity in the U.S. that it has received on a global basis, where it ranks behind only soccer among participation sports. Today there are more than 46 million Americans who play volleyball. There are 800 million players worldwide who play volleyball at least once a week.

In 1895, William G. Morgan, an instructor at the Young Men's Christian Association (YMCA) in Holyoke, Mass., decided to blend elements of basketball, baseball, tennis, and handball to create a game for his classes of businessmen which would demand less physical contact than basketball. He created the game of Volleyball (at that time called mignonette). Morgan borrowed the net from tennis, and raised it 6 feet 6 inches above the floor, just above the average man's head. It, like basketball, is one of the few "invented" sports that have extended around the world. Morgan named the game Minoette originally but as he experimented with a net and a ball the players volleyed the ball back and forth across the net thus he changed the name to volleyball.

During a demonstration game, someone remarked to Morgan that the players seemed to be volleying the ball back and forth over the net, and perhaps "volleyball" would be a more descriptive name for the sport. On July 7, 1896 at Springfield College the first game of "volleyball" was played.

Playing the Game

The ball is put into play by the right back-row player who serves the ball by hitting it over the net to the opponent's court. A player is not allowed to hit the ball twice consecutively, except when attempting a block. The rally continues until the ball touches the ground/floor, goes "out" or a team fails to return it to the opponent's court or commits a fault.

Rally scoring is now used and played to 25 points. When the receiving team wins a rally, it gains the right to serve and scores a point. Its players rotate one position clockwise. Rotation ensures that players play at both the net and the back zone of the court. A team wins a game by scoring 25 points with a two-point advantage and wins the match by winning the best of three or five games

SAFETY

1. When playing a game, be careful not to cross the center line.
2. No wearing jewelry when playing volleyball.
3. Be sure standards are properly anchored to floor.
4. Wear proper athletic shoes.

CARE OF EQUIPMENT

1. Players should never kick, throw or sit on the volleyballs.
2. The volleyball nets should not be pulled on and players should be careful not to sit or stand on the supporting poles.
3. Put all volleyballs away after class.

TECHNIQUES

FOREARM PASS:

- HANDS- Hands are held together by making a fist with one hand while holding the thumb up towards the ceiling. The other hand is wrapped around the fist and both thumbs are flat and parallel to each other.
- ARMS- Rotate the elbows and hands toward the floor and provide a flat surface or "platform" with the forearms to play the ball. Minimum arm swing is used to pass the ball; players should extend the legs and body in the direction of the ball.
- LEGS- The knees should be bent with the right foot slightly ahead of the left facing the direction of the target. The body should be low and leaning forward (waist should be bent) and lift the body up and forward toward the target.
- Players must first move their feet to the ball and get their body in proper position with the ball in front of them while facing the intended target.

SET:

- HANDS- The fingers are spread apart in the shape of the ball. If students put their hands on their hips and raise them over their head this should be the proper position. The ball is contacted over the forehead.
- LEGS- The right foot should be forward with the knees bent. Hands are just above the forehead with elbows bent. As contact is made, arms and legs extend upward and out toward the target. To set a farther distance more legs should be used.
- Players must first move their feet to the ball and get into proper position behind the ball and facing their target and extending the body toward the target.

OVERHAND SERVE:

Be sure that students have a good toss

Watch for dropped elbows-Not fully extending the arm

Watch for transfer of weight

HITTING:

APPROACH-

(Example for right handed people)

Start at the 10 foot line, this is the final steps before hitting.

First step- right foot steps forward

Second step-both feet land together with the heels and rock to the toes as you jump. Both arms go straight up and the hitting arm drops back to hit. Swing arm forward with an open hand. The ball should be out in front of the body, the arm should be fully extended, swing through the ball with a snap of the wrist and a follow through.

TIP:

This is the same as hitting except for the final contact. Contact is made with the finger tips and the ball is lightly directed to an open spot just past the net.

BLOCK:

The defenders are up at the net with the hands above the shoulders. The hands should never drop below the shoulders (this keeps them from hitting the net on the way up). As the player jumps, they bend the knees and jump straight up fully extending both arms up and over the net. Hands should penetrate over the top of the net with the fingers spread apart and hands bent down and facing in the court to direct the ball in bounds when blocked. The timing of the block is for the blocker to jump when the hitter jumps.

 Hands should be together so that the hit does not go through their arms.

SERVE RECEIVE:

The harder the serve, the less action the passer needs to use. Use the middle front player at the net as the setter and all passes should be directed to them. The passer must call the ball and move their feet to get into proper position facing the target.

DIG:

The dig is a defensive pass usually from an opponents spike or tip. Passers must stay low and move their feet. The harder the hit, the less reaction you need.

GENERAL:

- ❖ The ideal order of hits is pass (bump), set, and spike.
- ❖ Players rotate in clockwise direction.
- ❖ Back row players cannot jump in front of the 10 foot line.
- ❖ Players can block a serve
- ❖ All players (except the server) must be in bounds until the ball is served.

- ❖ A single hit off a player's body above the waist is legal.
- ❖ Players can step on the center line but not completely over it.
- ❖ Players can never touch the net.
- ❖ Serves cannot touch the net but during volleys balls can touch the net.
- ❖ All balls that travel over the net must do so over the area of the court which is in bounds.
