Streamwood's ground game proving tough to stop

By Mike Miazga, Daily Herald correspondent

Streamwood football coach Keith McMaster said one early-season key has been the addition of all-Upstate Eight Conference soccer player Joel Sandoval.

Through the Sabres first two games, Sandoval has run 5 times for 129 yards and has 2 rushing touchdowns -- part of a Streamwood rushing attack that has pounded opponents for 901 yards on a whopping 113 carries (451 yards per game; 8.0 yards per tote). Sandoval's long run is 53 yards.

He also handles the Streamwood kicking and punting duties, averaging 40.7 yards per punt with 3 boots inside the 20.

"Joel adds to our offense with field goal abilities and can kick the ball all over the field," McMaster said. "We can go deep, short and side to side. However, he doesn't just kick for us. His soccer skills come in handy as a running back. He knows how to maneuver through tight spaces."

Ground and pound:

Some more here on the Streamwood rushing attack. The Sabres (1-1, 1-1 Upstate Eight) hold a 44-29 advantage in first downs made through the first two weeks of the season, a 16-3 edge in rushing touchdowns and are converting 61% of their third-down attempts. Michael Estrada (357 yards rushing, 4 scores) and Isaac Martinez (321 yards rushing, 6 TD) lead the way for Streamwood, which faces Glenbard East this week at Millennium Field.

Scoop them up:

One stat that sticks out in South Elgin's Week 2 win against East Aurora is in the fumble recovery department. The Storm has four of those with Kanye Smith coming up with two and Cole Wilmot and Axel Bernal each with one. Wilmot and Alex Rios each were credited with a forced fumble.

Also of significance was the leg of kicker Kai Paz, who went 8-for-8 in the point-after attempts department, but also averaged 51.5 yards on 8 kickoffs. He had 1 touchback and placed 5 kicks inside the 25-yard line. He was also 1-for-1 on onside kick attempts.

Paz scored a pair of rushing touchdowns as well. South Elgin was highly efficient in its running attack, carrying the ball 27 times for 201 yards. Nine Storm players had two or more carries. Jake Sullivan ran 7 times for 51 yards and a score to lead the way.
